

ABSTRACT

A through wiring board provided with through wiring extending through the through hole of the board. The through
5 wiring board comprises a through hole made through the board, through extension wiring provided in the through hole and extending on one side of the through wiring board up to a position at a predetermined distance from the through hole, and a conductive bump formed on the through extension wiring
10 except the through hole position.